Brewer's Corner

The latest news and views articles collated from the world of beer.

Less But Better

Let's start with some good news for Craft Beer. The Drinks Business published a deep-dive this week into the IWSR Drinks Market Analysis, which showed "encouraging signs for the continued recovery and premium-isation of the alcohol category". One point which stood out is that the recovery is being led by Millennials, who have significant spending power, and a focus on "less but better".

Spending Slows

Not such good news from Barclaycard, who report that consumer spending slowed 1.2% in May compared to the same month in 2021, as consumers tightened their belts to cope with rises in energy and food costs, amongst other things.

READ THE ARTICLE

The Varying Cost Of A Pint

Meanwhile Beer Today report on a CGO survey on the nationwide cost of a pint which ranges from a low of £1.79 in Lancashire, to a high of £8.06 in London! Although these figures were the extreme outliers, it does illustrate a remarkable north/south divide regarding the cost of a pint.

Festival Review

ROB C
CO FOUNDER TWICB

Bristol Craft Beer Festival

Harbourside, Bristol

The Bristol leg of the 'We Are Beer' summer festival circuit has been on our to-do list for a while, and this week we finally got ourselves organised to attend.

Schedules allowed us to head West at lunchtime on Friday, giving time for a very pleasant couple of hours' warm-up, split between the magnificent LHG Brewpub, and the iconic Small Bar, either of which would be enough to justify a trip to Bristol on their own.

Suitable primed, we were in the queue just before opening time, ready to put our best foot forward for the five hour evening session at the Bristol Craft Beer Festival.

Festival Review

The BCBF has a fabulous location on the quayside in the centre of the City, although it is rather reliant on decent weather as the seating is all outdoors. Fortunately the weather cooperated, and the Friday evening session was pleasantly busy, without being quite sold out, so there was never an issue finding a table to sit at. The Festival site is similar to Beer Central in that the food stalls and the toilets are some distance from the bar areas, in their own separate compound.

The bars were setup across five large marquees, with the emphasis being very much focused on West Country Breweries, with a few UK representatives from further afield. Highlights for us included Vault City (of course!), Yonder, Twisted Wheel and one of the emerging stars of the UK scene, Barons.

Comfortably busy, but plenty of table space

Stu and Jas from Yonder were doing a roaring trade dispensing their incredible 9.5% Tropical Fool from a slushie machine, complete with umbrella and cocktail cherry!

The only International Brewery was Amundsen, but boy did they make their presence felt, dispensing incredible Dessert in a Can Imperial Stouts all night long, backed up by complementary luxury cream doughnuts!

The consensus from our group was that we would have liked to see perhaps a couple more overseas breweries present, but there was plenty of amazing beer to drink, and we had a great evening, without ever thinking about sampling the same beer more than once.

Calendars permitting, we will definitely be back next year!
